Facts Revealed in 1951 Accident Survey by State Highway Bureau

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4—(INS)—

Contrary to popular belief, most automobile accidents in Pennsylvania last year occurred in daylight on dry, unobstructed highways in clear weather.

Furthermore, most cars involved in accidents had no defects, the drivers had one year or more of experience and were not driving improperly—but they were inattentive.

These facts were brought out today in a survey of 1951 accidents by the state highway safety bureau. "The primary purpose of 'accident facts'," said safety director T. E. Transeau, "is the hope that it may be used as a guide in future accident prevention work."

"Accidents do not 'just happen,' they are caused by some specific conditions or acts and can be altered by safety activities."

The review showed that 1,642 persons were killed in 123,088 accidents which were reported to the department under the financial responsibility law. A total of 224,520 drivers were involved in the accidents which injured 65,643 people.

The death toll was seven percent above the previous year.

MARTIN SAYS TRUMAN BETRAYED SOLDIERS

Senator Accuses President Because of Failure to Use Taft-Hartley Act

WAS A POLITICAL DEAL

(Special to Courier)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—President Truman was accused of a "shameful betrayal" of American soldiers fighting in Korea because of his refusal to use the Taft-Hartley Labor Act to deal with the steel strike, in the course of an address by Senator Edward Martin, (R., Pa.) broadcast during the past week-end.

If this refusal, as has been hinted, the Senator added, actually represents a political deal with Philip Murray, head of the CIO and its Steel Workers Union not to invoke the Taft-Hartley Law, then "it was an abject surrender of Presidential power in exchange for political support."

In his address, which was the last of a series of weekly reports on happenings in Washington, Senator Martin said: "I want to point out to you that the stubborn and arrogant refusal of the President to invoke the Taft-Hartley law was a shameful betrayal of our American boys who are fighting and dying in Korea."

"I wonder if President Truman gave any thought to those casualty lists when he stubbornly refused to use the law enacted by Congress to meet such emergencies."

"Just before the strike was settled, the Secretary of Defense, Continued on Page Three

PHILADELPHIA ELECTRIC COMPANY IS SPENDING $75,000,000 TO KEEP PACE WITH EXPANSION IN 2 COUNTIES

Construction by Utility in Bucks and Montgomery Counties Includes 140 Miles of Transmission and Distribution Lines at A Cost of $13,000,000; New Gas Mains Cost $4,000,000; Much Other Work is Also Being Done.

Special to Courier

PHILA., Aug. 4—Philadelphia Electric Company is spending an estimated $75,000,000 to keep pace with the expanding industrial, commercial, and residential needs for electricity and gas in Bucks and Montgomery counties, it was announced today. A spokesman for the utility emphasized that the local program for the expansion of existing facilities and the construction of new electric transmission and distribution lines and gas mains is but a part of the Company's overall improvement program covering the next five years, to meet growing needs throughout the area it serves in southeastern Pennsylvania.

The construction in the Bucks-Montgomery county area includes approximately 140 miles of transmission and distribution lines as well as other facilities for reinforcing and expanding the power supply, at a cost of about $13,000,000. These include major capacity additions to the Company's Emille substation near Bristol, and three 132,000-volt lines connecting with Public Service Electric & Gas Company in New Jersey. One of these lines was constructed by converting two lower voltage lines between Trenton and Morrisville to a single high-voltage line to supply the developing steel center at Morrisville. The other two cross the Delaware river near Bristol and in northeast Philadelphia, respectively, and will bolster the power supply throughout the Bristol-Morrisville area.

Gas main extensions are also being made, at an estimated cost of $4,000,000. They will serve the thousands of new homes in the area, many of which will use gas for heating, as well as the expanding and newly-established industries in this growing industrial center.

These facilities are augmented by the new $275,000 service building and district headquarters at Pennell, and by the $57,500,000 Crombley electric generating station now under construction near Phoenixville. This station will house two giant generators. The first, of 150,000 kilowatts, will be

AGED COUPLE AMONG LICENSE SEEKERS

Bristol Man, 72, Applies For License to Wed Woman Who is 66 Years Old

106 PAIRS GET LICENSES

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 4.—Four of the applicants for marriage licenses during last month were over 60 years of age, three being in the seventies. The oldest male was a Bristol bachelor of 72, who applied for a license to wed a twice widowed Bristol woman, who was 66 years old.

The oldest female applicant of the month was a 72-year-old Philadelphia woman, who married a man a year younger than herself. They held the distinction of being the oldest couple of the month.

Two brides, both of whom were 16, one from Quakertown and one from Cornwells Heights, applied with their 20-year-old boy friends. The youngest male applicants were two youth of 19. The youngest couple came from Morrisville. The fellow was 19; and his sweetheart was 17.

Thirty-one of the brides were minors; while only nine of the men needed consent. Broken down into age groups, the minors were as follows: 16, two girls; 17, six girls; 18, five girls; 19, two men and seven girls; and 20, seven men and eleven girls.

Especially interesting during the month was the license issued to a New Jersey woman, 36 years old, who was married previously three times. Her fourth spouse was a bachelor her age. Two of her previous mates died; and she was divorced from one. One Philadelphia

MAN LOSES LIFE IN POOL AT EDDINGTON

Terrance McGovern, 54, Cafe Manager, Was On Picnic With Group

WAS BATHING IN POOL

EDDINGTON, Aug. 4.—A Phila. man, Terrance McGovern, 54, manager of a cafe, met death last night in a pool on a picnic ground at the St. Francis Industrial School, near Route 13 and Street rd., Bensalem township.

Dr. Vincent Romano, of Bristol, pronounced McGovern dead. Other picnicers and the Interstate Marine Ass'n units attempted to revive McGovern.

McGovern was found floating by swimmers who carried him from the pool. John McGovern, of 2559 E. Monmouth st., Phila., told Bensalem Police Chief George Rentz that he dived into the pool fully clothed and aided his cousin to the overflow lodge, where the latter rested for a while and then swam off.

The victim was one of 200 on a picnic of residents of the Richmond and Ann sts., (Phila.) neighborhood. The body was removed to the funeral home of J. Maurice Tomlinson, Cornwells Heights, then forwarded to Philadelphia for burial.

MARTIN SAYS TRUMAN BETRAYED SOLDIERS

Senator Accuses President Because of Failure to Use Taft-Hartley Act

WAS A POLITICAL DEAL

(Special to Courier)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—President Truman was accused of a "shameful betrayal" of American soldiers fighting in Korea because of his refusal to use the Taft-Hartley Labor Act to deal with the steel strike, in the course of an address by Senator Edward Martin, (R., Pa.) broadcast during the past week-end.

If this refusal, as has been hinted, the Senator added, actually represents a political deal with Philip Murray, head of the CIO and its Steel Workers Union not to invoke the Taft-Hartley Law, then "it was an abject surrender of Presidential power in exchange for political support."

In his address, which was the last of a series of weekly reports on happenings in Washington, Senator Martin said:

"I want to point out to you that the stubborn and arrogant refusal of the President to invoke the Taft-Hartley law was a shameful betrayal of our American boys who are fighting and dying in Korea."

"I wonder if President Truman gave any thought to those casualty lists when he stubbornly refused to use the law enacted by Congress to meet such emergencies."

"Just before the strike was settled, the Secretary of Defense,

PHILADELPHIA ELECTRIC COMPANY IS SPENDING $75,000,000 TO KEEP PACE WITH EXPANSION IN 2 COUNTIES

Construction by Utility in Bucks and Montgomery Counties Includes 140 Miles of Transmission and Distribution Lines at A Cost of $13,000,000; New Gas Mains Cost $4,000,000; Much Other Work is Also Being Done.

Special to Courier

PHILA., Aug. 4.—Philadelphia Electric Company is spending an estimated $75,000,000 to keep pace with the expanding industrial, commercial, and residential needs for electricity and gas in Bucks and Montgomery counties, it was announced today. A spokesman for the utility emphasized that the local program for the expansion of existing facilities and the construction of new electric transmission and distribution lines and gas mains is but a part of the Company's overall improvement program covering the next five years, to meet growing needs throughout the area it serves in southeastern Pennsylvania.

The construction in the Bucks-Montgomery county area includes approximately 140 miles of transmission and distribution lines as well as other facilities for reinforcing and expanding the power supply, at a cost of about $13,000,000. These include major capacity additions to the Company's Emilie substation near Bristol, and three 132,000-volt lines connecting with Public Service Electric & Gas Company in New Jersey. One of these lines was constructed by converting two lower voltage lines between Trenton and Morrisville to a single high-voltage line to supply the developing steel center at Morrisville. The other two cross the Delaware river near Bristol and in northeast Philadelphia, respectively, and will bolster the power supply throughout the Bristol-Morrisville area.

Gas main extensions are also being made, at an estimated cost of $4,000,000. They will serve the thousands of new homes in the area, many of which will use gas for heating, as well as the expanding and newly-established industries in this growing industrial center.

These facilities are augmented by the new $275,000 service building and district headquarters at Pottsville, and by the $57,500,000 Crommel electric generating station now under construction near Phoenixville. This station will house two giant generators. The first, of 150,000 kilowatts, will be

TIME BOMB

Coal strikes, for obvious reasons, aren't likely to be called in summer. Announcement by an official of the Bituminous Coal Association that John L. Lewis has served notice his United Mine Workers Union is terminating its contract in 60 days implies no immediate threat. It is a time bomb.

Under the contract in effect since January, 1951, there must be a 60-day notice before a contract is terminated. The no-contract-no-work slogan of the union would then take effect on September 22. Invoking the Taft-Hartley Act would force a cooling-off period of 80 days, delaying matters until December 9, by which time nobody will be complaining about heat waves. But it is doubtful whether President Truman would resort to the act.

In any event, Lewis has acted to be ready to call a strike at a more propitious time than the present. He has at least 60 days to make up his mind.

The steel strike reduced the demand for coal and stocks above ground are large. Some miners have been laid off. But with the steel strike ended and the companies attempting to catch up with demand, the outlook for a successful coal strike will begin to improve.

Under the January, 1951, contract, average pay of miners was raised to $16.35 a day. Since then the cost of living has gone up 5 per cent, and terms of the steel settlement are expected to boost it still higher. A good guess is that Lewis will demand a wage increase of at least 10 per cent. Coal operators are expected to resist the demand.

STEEL-AND PRICE INDEX

Cost of living for urban families of moderate incomes reached a new high in the May 15-June 15 period as calculated in the Consumer's Price Index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. On the latter date the index stood at 189.6 per cent of the 1935-1939 base, of one-half of one per cent over the previous record high of 189.1 on December 15, 1951.

Standing alone, this small increase is not of great significance. But the effect of the steel strike, with its increased wages to 600,000 workers and an increase of more than $5 a ton for steel, is still to be felt. It may prove quite inflationary.

Other workers, on the heels of the steelworkers' victory, may press for substantial wage increases. Soft coal negotiations are just ahead. Does the steel settlement herald the beginning of "another round" in spite of insistence in some circles that it marks the end of an earlier series of increases?

The prospect is disquieting. It is, in fact, alarming to that great body of citizens who are unable to force an increase in their incomes every few months. They are the victims of ruthless economic forces which stalk the land.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

Ideal Double Murder

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—

The running dog-fight which Senator William Benton, of Connecticut, and Senator Joseph McCarthy, of Wisconsin, have been conducting for a great many weeks, in the Senate and out, has reached a disappointing stage to some of their colleagues. Due to Senator McCarthy's illness there is a temporary lull in the bombardment. But it will not last long. When the feud first started there were quite a few senators of both parties who thought, perhaps, they might kill each other off. This, they would have regarded as an ideal double murder.

However desirable this outcome may have appeared, they have pretty well lost hope now. At the moment there seems no prospect at all that the Benton resolution asking the Senate to throw Senator McCarthy out will be acted upon until next year—if then. Also, there seems slight chance the $2,000,000 libel suit which Senator McCarthy has filed against Senator Benton will come to trial until after the election—if then. This is the suit in which Senator McCarthy, acting as his own lawyer, says he hopes to prove Senator Benton a perjurer. In brief, there appears no prospect for either a court decision or a senatorial vote to end this extremely virulent senatorial feud for a long, long time.

What does impend is a protracted period during which these two explosive gentlemen will make speeches and issue statements denouncing each other—but not getting anywhere. They will beat their respective breasts, tear their thinning hair, proclaim the purity of their hearts and the undiluted nature of their patriotism. At the same time, they will keep the air filled with the most insulting and opprobrious epithets of which they can think. This has become such a routine performance that even at his most tempestuous best neither of these feudists any longer can command more than a handful of senators as listeners.

Frankly, they have taken rank as the two leading senatorial bores. When one considers carefully the quality and character of the present Senate this is no mean distinction. Until this Benton-McCarthy effort to throw each other out of the Senate reached its present peak most unbiased observers in press gallery and on the Senate floor would have agreed that in any contest for first place among senatorial bores Senator Wayne Morse (R., Ore.) and Senator Hubert Humphrey (D., Minn.), should be given top priority. Now, there is a general feeling that the Benton-McCarthy combination, in sheer ability to bore, has edged the Messrs. Morse and Humphreys out of first place.

The charge is made that the

Messrs. Benton and McCarthy are the most insatiable and incurable publicity seekers the Senate ever saw. Here again this is an accolade not easily won in a body where literally every senator has a more or less avid appetite for favorable publicity. The outstanding thing about the Messrs. Benton and McCarthy is that they not only have this appetite more largely developed than most of their colleagues but they are both so constructed that they would rather have unfavorable publicity than none at all. This makes them almost unique.

So far as Mr. Benton is concerned this apparent itch for publicity is his business. A partner of the not too modest Mr. Chester Bowles, now our Minister to India, Mr. Benton was one of the most successful advertising men in the country. Certainly his 1950 campaign for the Senate was somewhat on the blatant side. He used a helicopter to go from meeting to meeting and employed other ingenious devices of his fascinating trade, the net result of which was his election by a rather insecure margin of 925 votes. As to Senator McCarthy, he lacks the training of Senator Benton in the publicity field, but he makes up for this by inherent industry and talent. Blowing his own horn is as natural to him as breathing and he seldom allows his publicity efforts to be handicapped by the facts. This, it will be admitted, is an advantage.

When two such stalwart statesmen meet in public battle the outcome most desired by impartial observers is that they may eliminate each other. That is why so many in Washington would have cheered had Senator McCarthy been ousted from his Senate seat at the last session and if, immediately after that, Senator Benton had lost the suit McCarthy has filed against him. Disappointed in this, their hopes are now centered upon the voters of Connecticut and Wisconsin. Both senators come up for re-election this year. Senator McCarthy's recovery in time to campaign in October is assured. If, with the enthusiastic co-operation of his constituents, both could be retired, many would rejoice.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.

(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 — The myth that Alger Hiss is innocent will not die despite the fact that this one-time assistant of Secretary of State Dean Acheson is a convicted liar, perjurer and communist spy.

Hiss is eligible for parole from Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary at the end of this November. He will then have served 20 months of two concurrent five-year terms.

On the 22nd of July, District Judge Henry W. Goddard of New York denied Hiss a retrial, based on a motion prepared by the convicted spy's lawyers. The motion charged that the tell-tale woodstock typewriter owned by the Hiss family and used to copy secret State Department documents for transmission to Whittaker Chambers, was faked; that a negro maid who testified that Hiss and Chambers were acquainted, was a liar.

The latest bid by Hiss for freedom from prison was preceded by a rash of articles questioning the Hiss conviction. They appeared in such publications as Look magazine and in something called "The Progressive". "Look" spoke of lingering doubts; the progressive magazine asked: "Was Alger Hiss Framed?"

Alger Hiss was not framed, but he is the beneficiary of a concentrated propaganda campaign that is without historic precedent. No other spy in modern history has had so much sympathetic attention lavished upon him; no other convicted liar and perjurer has ever been so well financed in his fight for freedom.

Hiss may be paroled. President Truman has the authority to order it. He termed the Hiss pre-trial investigations a "red-herring". Hiss also was a friend of Gov. Adlai Stevenson, of Illinois, the Democratic nominee for the presidency. And the campaign on behalf of Hiss, to prove his innocence, is gaining headway despite rejection of the motion for a new trial.

The court records on the two Hiss trials; the various motions by his counsel; Judge Goddard's opinions and the refutation of Hiss's claim of a faked typewriter and a lying maid are public records in the state of New York. They are voluminous, but I have examined all of them in detail.

In his latest plea for freedom, accompanied by various magazine articles questioning his guilt, Hiss asserted that Chambers or his Communist friends constructed a woodstock typewriter and planted it where Hiss could find it in time for his trial. Chambers is supposed to have done all this within a three-month period.

The first argument that Chambers had Communist friends during this period is ridiculous. Chambers had none; he had been in hiding from Soviet secret police for years, had been publicly exposing Communists for three years.

The Hiss defense attorneys hoped to prove that the secret State Department documents produced by Chambers could not have been retyped on the Hiss woodstock typewriter because such a machine did not exist during the period of the Hiss-Chambers acquaintanceship. Hiss, at his sentencing, said that he was the "victim of forgery by typewriter."

At a cost of $7,500 for the mechanical work alone, the Hiss defense counsel had a woodstock typewriter constructed by Martin K. Tytell, owner of the Tytell Typewriter Company, 123 Fulton street, New York City.

Tytell attempted to construct a woodstock with a type face that duplicated the Hiss typewriter produced at the court trial. He did not succeed as Judge Goddard pointed out in his denial of a new trial for Hiss.

The attempt was an expensive stunt and led to exactly nothing except to expose the Hiss attorneys as now denying what they had previously admitted.

At the second Hiss trial an expert employed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation testified that the typewriter documents produced by Chambers were typed on the Hiss woodstock typewriter. Defense attorneys for Hiss declined to cross-examine the FBI expert. In fact, in the defense summation a Hiss lawyer said:

"The government expert said that in his opinion these Baltimore documents were typed on the woodstock typewriter. Undoubtedly this is a good opinion. As I told you in the opening, we consulted experts, and in their opinion they thought so too."

New experts were consulted by Hiss and his attorneys within a year, however, to dispute their own previous trial experts and those of the FBI. Why? I think I can explain in subsequent columns.

TIME BOMB

Coal strikes, for obvious reasons, aren't likely to be called in summer. Announcement by an official of the Bituminous Coal Association that John L. Lewis has served notice his United Mine Workers Union is terminating its contract in 60 days implies no immediate threat. It is a time bomb.

Under the contract in effect since January, 1951, there must be a 60-day notice before a contract is terminated. The no-contract-no-work slogan of the union would then take effect on September 22. Invoking the Taft-Hartley Act would force a cooling-off period of 80 days, delaying matters until December 9, by which time nobody will be complaining about heat waves. But it is doubtful whether President Truman would resort to the act.

In any event, Lewis has acted to be ready to call a strike at a more propitious time than the present. He has at least 60 days to make up his mind.

The steel strike reduced the demand for coal and stocks above ground are large. Some miners have been laid off. But with the steel strike ended and the companies attempting to catch up with demand, the outlook for a successful coal strike will begin to improve.

Under the January, 1951, contract, average pay of miners was raised to $16.35 a day. Since then the cost of living has gone up 5 per cent, and terms of the steel settlement are expected to boost it still higher. A good guess is that Lewis will demand a wage increase of at least 10 per cent. Coal operators are expected to resist the demand.

STEEL—AND PRICE INDEX

Cost of living for urban families of moderate incomes reached a new high in the May 15-June 15 period as calculated in the Consumer's Price Index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. On the latter date the index stood at 189.6 per cent of the 1935-1939 base, of one-half of one per cent over the previous record high of 189.1 on December 15, 1951.

Standing alone, this small increase is not of great significance. But the effect of the steel strike, with its increased wages to 600,000 workers and an increase of more than $5 a ton for steel, is still to be felt. It may prove quite inflationary.

Other workers, on the heels of the steelworkers' victory, may press for substantial wage increases. Soft coal negotiations are just ahead. Does the steel settlement herald the beginning of "another round" in spite of insistence in some circles that it marks the end of an earlier series of increases?

The prospect is disquieting. It is, in fact, alarming to that great body of citizens who are unable to force an increase in their incomes every few months. They are the victims of ruthless economic forces which stalk the land.

Ideal Double Murder

Senator William Benton.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—

The running dog-fight which Senator William Benton, of Connecticut, and Senator Joseph McCarthy, of Wisconsin, have been conducting for a great many weeks, in the Senate and out, has reached a disappointing stage to some of their colleagues.

Due to Senator McCarthy's illness there is a temporary lull in the bombardment. But it will not last long. When the feud first started there were quite a few senators of both parties who thought, perhaps, they might kill each other off. This, they would have regarded as an ideal double murder.

—o—

However desirable this outcome may have appeared, they have pretty well lost hope now. At the moment there seems no prospect at all that the Benton resolution asking the Senate to throw Senator McCarthy out will be acted upon until next year—if then. Also, there seems slight chance the $2,000,000 libel suit which Senator McCarthy has filed against Senator Benton will come to trial until after the election—if then. This is the suit in which Senator McCarthy, acting as his own lawyer, says he hopes to prove Senator Benton a perjurer. In brief, there appears no prospect for either a court decision or a senatorial vote to end this extremely virulent senatorial feud for a long, long time.

—o—

What does impend is a protracted period during which these two explosive gentlemen will make speeches and issue statements denouncing each other—but not getting anywhere. They will beat their respective breasts, tear their hair, proclaim the purity of their hearts and the undiluted nature of their patriotism. At the same time, they will keep the air filled with the most insulting and opprobrious epithets of which they can think. This has become such a routine performance that even at his most tempestuous best neither of these feudists any longer can command more than a handful of senators as listeners.

Frankly, they have taken rank as the two leading senatorial bores. When one considers carefully the quality and character of the present Senate this is no mean distinction. Until this Benton-McCarthy effort to throw each other out of the Senate reached its present peak most unbiased observers in press gallery and on the Senate floor would have agreed that in any contest for first place among senatorial bores Senator Wayne Morse (R., Ore.) and Senator Hubert Humphrey (D., Minn.), should be given top priority. Now, there is a general feeling that the Benton-McCarthy combination, in sheer ability to bore, has edged the Messrs. Morse and Humphreys out of first place.

The charge is made that the

Messrs. Benton and McCarthy are the most insatiable and incurable publicity seekers the Senate ever saw. Here again this is an accolade not easily won in a body where literally every senator has a more or less avid appetite for favorable publicity. The outstanding thing about the Messrs. Benton and McCarthy is that they not only have this appetite more largely developed than most of their colleagues but they are both so constructed that they would rather have unfavorable publicity than none at all. This makes them almost unique.

So far as Mr. Benton is concerned this apparent itch for publicity is not surprising because publicity is his business. A partner of the not too modest Mr. Chester Bowles, now our Minister to India, Mr. Benton was one of the most successful advertising men in the country. Certainly his 1950 campaign for the Senate was somewhat on the blatant side. He used a helicopter to go from meeting to meeting and employed other ingenious devices of his fascinating trade, the net result of which was his election by a rather insecure margin of 925 votes. As to Senator McCarthy, he lacks the training of Senator Benton in the publicity field, but he makes up for this by inherent industry and talent. Blowing his own horn is as natural to him as breathing and he seldom allows his publicity efforts to be handicapped by the facts. This, it will be admitted, is an advantage.

When two such stalwart statesmen meet in public battle the outcome most desired by impartial observers is that they may eliminate each other. That is why so many in Washington would have cheered had Senator McCarthy been ousted from his Senate seat at the last session and if, immediately after that, Senator Benton had lost the suit McCarthy has filed against him. Disappointed in this, their hopes are now centered upon the voters of Connecticut and Wisconsin. Both senators come up for re-election this year. Senator McCarthy's recovery in time to campaign in October is assured. If, with the enthusiastic co-operation of his constituents, both could be retired, many would rejoice.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.
(Copyright, 1952,
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 — The myth that Alger Hiss is innocent will not die despite the fact that this one-time assistant of Secretary of State Dean Acheson is a convicted liar, perjurer and communist spy.

Hiss is eligible for parole from Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary at the end of this November. He will then have served 20 months of two concurrent five-year terms.

On the 22nd of July, District Judge Henry W. Goddard of New York denied Hiss a retrial, based on a motion prepared by the convicted spy's lawyers. The motion charged that the tell-tale woodstock typewriter owned by the Hiss family and used to copy secret State Department documents for transmission to Whittaker Chambers, was faked; that a negro maid who testified that Hiss and Chambers were acquainted, was a liar.

The latest bid by Hiss for freedom from prison was preceded by a rash of articles questioning the Hiss conviction. They appeared in such publications as Look magazine and in something called "The Progressive". "Look" spoke of lingering doubts; the progressive magazine asked: "Was Alger Hiss Framed?"

Alger Hiss was not framed, but he is the beneficiary of a concentrated propaganda campaign that is without historic precedent. No other spy in modern history has had so much sympathetic attention lavished upon him; no other convicted liar and perjurer has ever been so well financed in his fight for freedom.

Hiss may be paroled, President Truman has the authority to order it. He termed the Hiss pre-trial investigations a "red-herring". Hiss also was a friend of Gov. Adlai Stevenson, of Illinois, the Democratic nominee for the presidency. And the campaign on behalf of Hiss, to prove his innocence, is gaining headway despite rejection of the motion for a new trial.

The court records on the two Hiss trials; the various motions by his counsel; Judge Goddard's opinions and the refutation of Hiss's claim of a faked typewriter and a lying maid are public records in the state of New York. They are voluminous, but I have examined all of them in detail.

In his latest plea for freedom, accompanied by various magazine articles questioning his guilt, Hiss asserted that Chambers or his Communist friends constructed a woodstock typewriter and planted it where Hiss could find it in time for his trial. Chambers is supposed to have done all this within a three-month period.

The first argument that Chambers had Communist friends during this period is ridiculous. Chambers had none; he had been in hiding from Soviet secret police for years, had been publicly exposing Communists for three years.

The Hiss defense attorneys hoped to prove that the secret State Department documents produced by Chambers could not have been re-typed on the Hiss woodstock typewriter because such a machine did not exist during the period of the Hiss-Chambers acquaintanceship. Hiss, at his sentencing, said that he was the "victim of forgery by typewriter."

At a cost of $7,500 for the mechanical work alone, the Hiss defense counsel had a woodstock typewriter constructed by Martin K. Tytell, owner of the Tytell Typewriter Company, 123 Fulton street, New York city.

Tytell attempted to construct a woodstock with a type face that duplicated the Hiss typewriter produced at the court trial. He did not succeed as Judge Goddard pointed out in his denial of a new trial for Hiss.

The attempt was an expensive stunt and led to exactly nothing except to expose the Hiss attorneys as now denying what they had previously admitted.

At the second Hiss trial an expert employed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation testified that the typewriter documents produced by Chambers were typed on the Hiss woodstock typewriter. Defense attorneys for Hiss declined to cross-examine the FBI expert. In fact, in the defense summation a Hiss lawyer said:

"The government expert said that in his opinion these Baltimore documents were typed on the woodstock typewriter. Undoubtedly this is a good opinion. As I told you in the opening, we consulted experts, and in their opinion they thought so too."

New experts were consulted by Hiss and his attorneys within a year, however, to dispute their own previous trial experts and those of the FBI. Why? I think I can explain in subsequent columns.

Robert A. Lovett revealed how the defense program, into which we are pouring many billions of dollars, had been paralyzed.

"He estimated that 20 to 30 percent of the weapons and equipment scheduled for production this year have been lost as a result of the steel shut down.

"Here is what he said:

"No enemy nation could have so crippled our production as has this work stoppage. No form of bombing could have taken out of production in one day 380 steel plants and kept them out nearly two months."

"Out in St. Louis, Missouri, the steel shortage forced the closing of the biggest artillery shell manufacturing plant in the United States. This plant produces about one-half of the Army's 105-millimeter projectiles. It is operated by the Chevrolet division of General Motors and employees 2600 workers.

"Secretary Lovett said that one type of ammunition—the 57-millimeter recoilless cartridge—was being turned out at a slower rate than it was being fired at the enemy by our troops in Korea.

"Mr. Lovett disclosed that before the strike was settled, a big aircraft production plant was short in 422 of the parts that go into the manufacture of F-86 fighter planes. And let me remind you that the F-86 is the principal plane used by the Air Force in battle against the Russian-built MIG-15 in Korea.

"Mr. Lovett listed among the 'increasing list of manufacturers' that had been forced to shut down, producers of the following items:

"Navy rocket motors and heads, 20-millimeter projectiles, mine-sweeper generators, proximity fuses, torpedo parts, soldiers' helmets and parts for gas masks.

"You will recall that when the President seized the steel industry he justified his action on the ground that the stoppage of steel production, even for one day, would be felt in Korea.

"You will recall also that when the United States Supreme Court, on June 2, knocked out the Administration's claim of inherent powers and ruled the seizure unconstitutional, President Truman asked Congress for authority to seize the steel mills. This was refused.

"Both the House and Senate, by overwhelming votes, called up the President to enforce the emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Law as a means of settling the strike.

"It is pointed out that this improved mail service was made possible through the excellent cooperation obtained from Mr. Mulligan and the township commissioners.

Training Child In Safe Ways

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

INCREASE in the number of gadgets used in any household or about the farm or garden brings more hazards to parents and children.

A common hazard is the motor-driven wringer. Who has not known a mother or young child as victim? Sometimes it is a dangling hair that gets into the wringer. More often a hand. Children from two to five find the wringer very alluring. Even when the mother is very near, she may not know how to release the imprisoned hand quickly. If you have a motor-driven wringer, you should ascertain at once the best way to act in such an emergency.

Kitchen Hazards

Then there are such kitchen gadgets as food grinders and mixers, very perilous to young children. While it also might be well to study their mechanics to discover best emergency action, the most important thing is to train the toddler to keep his hands off all these gadgets. And this forbidding should extend to knives and other sharp-pointed tools there, and to his reaching above him on the stove or kitchen table.

The most effective way to teach him of such avoidance of constant hazards in the kitchen is to apply physical pain—an immediate sharp slap on his bare hand or bare thigh for each and every "offense." It must be immediate and without exception to be effective.

Unfortunately, most mothers trust to mere talk, which grows to repeated NO's and shriekings. Other mothers wait till they get frightened at some sudden danger or get angry enough to whack the child. Then they may infer that physical pain does no good anyway. Under such conditions it rarely does.

Many a mother has been led to believe from what she has read or heard, that she never should resort to applying physical pain to the child at all. Then after she has, in desperation, done so, she suffers great remorse.

Intelligent Plan

At a moment of repose she should ask herself whether it wouldn't be kinder and more humane to employ physical pain with an intelligent plan and purpose to render her child safer, than to let him be seriously injured or even destroyed. Isn't he precious enough to be protected by the surest way you know? A great many children have become lifetime cripples or had their lives snuffed out because of some of the nonsense propagated under the guise of modern child psychology. Of all the acres of print and hours and weeks of talk on the air and from the platform on safety, very few words have been devoted to basic prohibitions so essential to safety in young children. My bulletin, "How Teach Tot Meaning of NO," may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper.

Some mothers wise enough to use the sense they were born with, choose to train their little children in safe ways, in defiance of the prevailing philosophy of restraints-to-the-winds. If my column could save the life of just one little child, I'd count it worth my years of effort at writing it.

divorced. Seven men and eight women had lost former mates by death. A Bristol man, 33 years old, was twice divorced and selected for his third mate a twice-divorced woman five years his junior. A Philadelphia couple also took the third aisle trip. The 56-year-old bridegroom, once divorced and also a widower, took the vows with a twice-divorced sweetheart, who was 47 years old.

Divided according to age groups, the 106 applicants, with the exception of the minors, were the following ages: 21 to 30, 63 men and 48 women; 30 to 40, 18 men and 13 women; 40 to 50, eight men and 12 women; 50 to 60, six men; 60 to 70, one woman; over 70, two men and one woman.

Fourteen young men in the service made application in July, indicating a decline in the servicemen's weddings. Four were in the U. S. Army; four were in the U. S. Navy; and there were three each in the U. S. Marine Corps and the U. S. Air Force.

The applicant coming the greatest distance was a sailor from California. Few out-of-state applicants came to the county seat last month. There were a few from Massachusetts, Maryland, New York and New Jersey.

Compared with July of 1951, there were 17 fewer applicants this year in July; and 27 fewer than in July, 1950.

One hundred and six couples applied for marriage licenses at the office of the Clerk of Orphans Court of Bucks county, here, during the month of July. There was a noticeable rise in the ages of the applicants, with fewer teen-agers and more people over the 40 age mark.

Rice and Peach Dessert Makes a Joy and Eating a Dream

Here is a "peachy" way to make a meal one to remember—serve this luscious rice and peach dessert! Inexpensive rice is a perfect foil for the marvelous flavors of the golden peach. And as these two family food favorites bake together, an extra yummy casserole dessert with irresistible goodness develops. Underneath the toasty brown bread crumb top is eating supreme and "come back for more appeal!"

Ingredients:

- 2 egg yolks
- 1 cup milk
- 3/4 cup beet or cane sugar

- 3 cups cooked rice
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 5 large peach halves, sliced
- 1 cup bread crumbs

Preparing the fluffy white rice: To make 3 liberal cups of fluffy rice, put 1 cup of uncooked rice, 2 cups of cold water and 1 teaspoon of salt into a two-quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover saucepan with lid and leave over this low heat for 14 minutes. Do not remove lid nor stir rice while it is cooking. Turn off the heat. It is then ready—perfectly cooked—with all the grains separate and fluffy.

It is not necessary to rinse packaged rice cooked by this method. Use exact measurements of uncooked rice and water. Time the cooking accurately.

Method: Beat egg yolks, add milk and mix well. Add sugar, rice and vanilla. Grease a two-quart baking dish. Place half the peach slices on the bottom of the baking dish. Add half of the rice mixture. Add the rest of the peach slices. Pour in the rest of the rice mixture. Sprinkle the bread crumbs over the top. Bake 350 degrees f. until rice has absorbed the milk (about 30 minutes). Serve hot or cold with cream, whipped cream or the sauce of your choice.

This recipe makes 8 servings.

Robert A. Lovett revealed how the defense program, into which we are pouring many billion of dollars, had been paralyzed.

"He estimated that 20 to 30 percent of the weapons and equipment scheduled for production this year have been lost as a result of the steel shut down."

"Here is what he said:

"No enemy nation could have so crippled our production as has this work stoppage. No form of bombing could have taken out of production in one day 380 steel plants and kept them out nearly two months."

"Out in St. Louis, Missouri, the steel shortage forced the closing of the biggest artillery shell manufacturing plant in the United States. This plant produces about one-half of the Army's 105-millimeter projectiles. It is operated by the Chevrolet division of General Motors and employees 2600 workers."

"Secretary Lovett said that one type of ammunition—the 57-millimeter recoilless cartridge—was being turned out at a slower rate than it was being fired at the enemy by our troops in Korea."

"Mr. Lovett disclosed that before the strike was settled, a big aircraft production plant was short in 422 of the parts that go into the manufacture of F-86 fighter planes. And let me remind you that the F-86 is the principal plane used by the Air Force in battle against the Russian-built MIG-15 in Korea."

"Mr. Lovett listed among the 'increasing list of manufacturers' that had been forced to shut down, producers of the following items:

"Navy rocket motors and heads, 20-millimeter projectiles, mine-sweeper generators, proximity fuses, torpedo parts, soldiers' helmets and parts for gas masks."

"You will recall that when the President seized the steel industry he justified his action on the ground that the stoppage of steel production, even for one day, would be felt in Korea."

"You will recall also that when the United States Supreme Court, on June 2, knocked out the Administration's claim of inherent powers and ruled the seizure unconstitutional, President Truman asked Congress for authority to seize the steel mills. This was refused."

"Both the House and Senate, by overwhelming votes, called up the President to enforce the emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Law as a means of settling the strike."

"I say there is a direct connection between Mr. Truman's refusal to comply with the direct request of Congress and the closing down of the big aircraft and munitions plants which are producing planes, shells and equipment for our fighting forces in Korea."

"It has been charged by members of Congress that President Truman was bound by a promise he made to Philip Murray, head of the CIO and its Steel Workers Union, not to invoke the Taft-Hartley Law."

"If such a promise was made it was an abject surrender of Presidential power in exchange for political support."

Training Child In Safe Ways

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

INCREASE in the number of gadgets used in any household or about the farm or garden brings more hazards to parents and children.

A common hazard is the motor-driven wringer. Who has not known a mother or young child as victim? Sometimes it is a dangling hair that gets into the wringer. More often a hand. Children from two to five find the wringer very alluring. Even when the mother is very near, she may not know how to release the imprisoned hand quickly. If you have a motor-driven wringer, you should ascertain at once the best way to act in such an emergency.

Kitchen Hazards

Then there are such kitchen gadgets as food grinders and mixers, very perilous to young children. While it also might be well to study their mechanics to discover best emergency action, the most important thing is to train the toddler to keep his hands off all these gadgets. And this forbidding should extend to knives and other sharp-pointed tools there, and to his reaching above him on the stove or kitchen table.

The most effective way to teach him of such avoidance of constant hazards in the kitchen is to apply physical pain—an immediate sharp slap on his bare hand or bare thigh for each and every "offense." It must be immediate and without exception to be effective.

Unfortunately, most mothers trust to mere talk, which grows to repeated NO's and shriekings. Other mothers wait till they get frightened at some sudden danger or get angry enough to whack the child. Then they may infer that physical pain does no good anyway. Under such conditions it rarely does.

Many a mother has been led to believe from what she has read or heard, that she never should resort to applying physical pain to the child at all. Then after she has, in desperation, done so, she suffers great remorse.

Intelligent Plan

At a moment of repose she should ask herself whether it wouldn't be kinder and more humane to employ physical pain with an intelligent plan and purpose to render her child safer, than to let him be seriously injured or even destroyed. Isn't he precious enough to be protected by the surest way you know? A great many children have become lifetime cripples or had their lives snuffed out because of some of the nonsense propaganda under the guise of modern child psychology. Of all the acres of print and hours and weeks of talk on the air and from the platform on safety, very few words have been devoted to basic prohibitions so essential to safety in young children. My bulletin, "How Teach Tot Meaning of NO," may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper.

Some mothers wise enough to use the sense they were born with, choose to train their little children in safe ways, in defiance of the prevailing philosophy of restraints-to-the-winds. If my column could save the life of just one little child, I'd count it worth my years of effort at writing it.

steps taken to eliminate the duplication of street names, throughout the township (at present there are as many as five different streets bearing the same name.)

Upon completion of the installation of street signs and house numbers, the approval of a U. S. postal inspector is necessary. Thereafter, the local post office will give a written notification to each resident effected as to the exact date of initiation of the foot delivery service. It is recommended that when the new service is installed, residents should incorporate the name of their housing development in their addresses—i. e.—John Doe, 1020 Elm, St., Winder Village, Bristol, Pa.

It is pointed out that this improved mail service was made possible through the excellent cooperation obtained from Mr. Mulligan and the township commissioners.

One of the Best! Casserole of Rice and Luncheon Meat Is Tops for Taste!

First in flavor... the tantalizing taste of this rice and luncheon meat baked dish is satisfying, mouth watering, just "out of this world!" Here is sumptuous eating mixed together in minutes and made temptingly delicious by the magic of the oven.

Delightful is the fact that the mixing, baking and serving are all done in one and the same dish. No extra pots and pans—one dish does the whole job! The oven does the work while the table is set, and the family is rewarded with the exciting goodness of this bubbly rice casserole.

Ingredients:

- 1 cup uncooked rice
- 1 10½ ounce can condensed cream of celery soup
- 1½ cups grated sharp cheese
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3½ cups water
- 1 12 ounce can pork luncheon meat

Method: In a shallow baking dish thoroughly mix the rice, celery soup, cheese, salt and water. Cut the luncheon meat into thin slices and arrange on top of the rice. Bake in a 350 degrees F. oven until the liquid has been absorbed by the rice (about 45 minutes). Halfway through the baking, make sure the divorced. Seven men and eight women had lost former mates by death. A Bristol man, 33 years old, was twice divorced and selected for his third mate a twice-divorced woman five years his junior. A Philadelphia couple also took the third aisle trip. The 56-year-old bridegroom, once divorced and also a widower, took the vows with a twice-divorced sweetheart, who was 47 years old.

Divided according to age groups, the 106 applicants, with the exception of the minors, were the following ages: 21 to 30, 63 men and 48 women; 30 to 40, 18 men and 13 women; 40 to 50, eight men and 12 women; 50 to 60, six men; 60 to 70, one woman; over 70, two men and one woman.

Fourteen young men in the service made application in July, indicating a decline in the servicemen's weddings. Four were in the U. S. Army; four were in the U. S. Navy; and there were three each in the U. S. Marine Corps and the U. S. Air Force.

The applicant coming the greatest distance was a sailor from California. Few out-of-state applicants came to the county seat last month. There were a few from Massachusetts, Maryland, New York and New Jersey.

Compared with July of 1951, there were 17 fewer applicants this year in July; and 27 fewer than in July, 1950.

One hundred and six couples applied for marriage licenses at the office of the Clerk of Orphans Court of Bucks county, here during the month of July. There was a noticeable rise in the ages of the applicants, with fewer teen-agers and more people over the 40 age mark.

Miss Stella D. Nowack Is Wed to Mr. James J. Fallon

TORRESDALE, Aug. 4 — Gowned in white marquisette and Chantilly lace over satin, Miss Stella D. Nowack on Sunday at 1:30 p. m., took the vows which made her the wife of Mr. James J. Fallon. The double ring ceremony was solemnized in St. Michael's R. C. Church, here, with Mr. John Nowack, Laings Gardens, Bristol twp., giving his daughter in marriage. The Rev. Francis Urbanowicz officiated.

The bride wore a marquisette. The gown had front and back bodice panels of lace, it having a row of tiny buttons from the neckline to the waist-line in front. Tiers of lace extended from the side of the skirt to the hemline in the rear. The train was of marquisette. Sleeves tapered over her hands. Her lace cap had seed pearl trim, and held a triple-tier illusion veil. She carried a cascade of white roses with a white orchid in the center, the shower effect being of white ribbon.

Two young women attended the bride. The maid of honor, Miss Frances Angel, Philadelphia, wore pale blue; and the bridesmaid, Miss Mary Wade, Pine street, Bristol, chose pink. Their gowns were of cotton lace, made strapless, and with these were worn boleros, short detachable sleeves; and slippers and lace bonnets to match the gowns. The maid of honor carried pink roses, and the other attendant, blue roses.

Mr. Joseph J. Fallon, Trenton, N. J., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The usher was Mr. John Dougherty, Linden street, Bristol. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. James Fallon, 401 Jefferson avenue, Bristol, and he and his bride plan to reside there.

Mrs. Nowack, mother of the bride, was attired in a navy blue linen dress, navy blue and white accessories. Mrs. John Marion, Spruce street, aunt of the bridegroom, selected a navy blue and white print sheer, with white accessories. Corsages for both were red rose-buds.

Mr. Fallon is a graduate of Bristol high school and Villanova College. Both he and his bride have been employed by Hunter-Wilson Distilling Co., Bristol. Mrs. Fallon graduated from Bensalem high school. To her attendants she presented pearl chokers and matching earrings. Mr. Fallon gave the best man and usher sets consisting of cuff links, tie clasps and key chains.

Following a reception for 80 at the Hotel Hildebrecht, Trenton, N. J., the couple left for a week in the Pocono mountains. The bride travelled in a big suit, black accessories, and wore a white orchid.

For four servings, split in half lengthwise a young four-pound turkey (ready-to-cook weight). Snap the two joints in the legs and wings to keep the fiddler flat during broiling. Skewer the leg to the body and fold back the wing tip. Place in broiler pan and brush with melted butter or margarine. With skin side down, broil slowly. When the bird has reached a light brown (about 15 minutes) turn two or three times and baste often with barbecue sauce thinned with a little water. Broil until fork-tender (about 60 minutes).

Try this barbecue sauce: Blend one teaspoon of salt, one-half teaspoon of pepper, one tablespoon of paprika and one tablespoon of sugar. Add one-half clove of garlic or a half-teaspoon of garlic salt, one cup of catsup or chili sauce and one-half cup of water. Heat to boiling. LEVITTOWN, Aug. 4 — The family of Philip Brown is beginning to feel very much at home at 64 Stonybrook Drive. The family's newest arrival is baby Joseph, born several weeks ago.

A veteran of service in the Pacific theatre of operations during World War II, Mr. Brown is now in operations research at Frankford Arsenal, Philadelphia. Before the arrival of the baby, Mrs. Brown was a social case worker for Family Service, Philadelphia. Although she was called upon occasionally to do some home visiting, most of her family counselling was done through office interviews. The Browns right now are anxious to see the landscaping about the new houses completed. Meanwhile the head of the household carries out his hobby of making furniture. He has among the attractive pieces he has made a modernistic radio-phonograph unit and speaker; a set of glass bookshelves; and an end table.

Mr. Brown originally lived in Pittsburgh, and his wife was from Minneapolis, Minn. Before coming here they resided in Philadelphia.

FARMINGTON, N. M. — (INS) — The San Juan Basin Sun reported several motorists in this northwestern New Mexico gas and oil boomtown were "apparently so enchanted" by the town's first traffic light they "sat patiently all the time the light was green, then drove clammy through the intersection the moment the signal turned red."

Highest temperature ever recorded in the U. S. was 134 degrees F., in Death Valley on July 10, 1913.

The planet Pluto was not discovered until 1930.

LEVITTOWN, Aug. 4 — The family of Philip Brown is beginning to feel very much at home at 64 Stonybrook Drive. The family's newest arrival is baby Joseph, born several weeks ago.

A veteran of service in the Pacific theatre of operations during World War II, Mr. Brown is now in operations research at Frankford Arsenal, Philadelphia. Before the arrival of the baby, Mrs. Brown was a social case worker for Family Service, Philadelphia. Although she was called upon occasionally to do some home visiting, most of her family counselling was done through office interviews.

The Browns right now are anxious to see the landscaping about the new houses completed. Meanwhile the head of the household carries out his hobby of making furniture. He has among the attractive pieces he has made a modernistic radio-phonograph unit and speaker; a set of glass bookshelves; and an end table.

Mr. Brown originally lived in Pittsburgh, and his wife was from Minneapolis, Minn. Before coming here they resided in Philadelphia.

LITTLE LEAGUE TO SHOW PICTURES HERE

Monday evening, August 11, in St. Marks Hall, Radcliffe street, at 8:30 p. m. the Bristol Boys League will offer for public viewing two reels of motion picture portraying some of the basic fundamentals and other activities dealing with Little League Baseball.

The sport of baseball among boys nine to 12 years, as conducted under the direction of Little League Baseball, Inc., is nationally known, with leagues operating in at least 38 states of the union.

It is the intention of the Bristol Boys League to apply for membership in Little League Baseball for active participation in 1953 and it is with that intention in mind that the pictures are being shown at this time, in order to acquaint the people of this area with the accomplishments of Little League Baseball and to arouse their interest in this project which affords our young boys an opportunity to engage in a healthy sport within the limits of their physical capabilities, under competent supervision.

Officials of the Boys League stress the fact there will be no admission charge and extend a cordial invitation to all interested to attend this showing.

MEET TONIGHT

There will be an important meeting of the Bristol Softball League this evening at eight o'clock in the Diamond Sporting Goods Store, Mill street. All managers are urged to be present.

Most drivers were in the 25 to 29 age group.

Accidents involving pedestrians followed the same general pattern of the total accident reports.

Most pedestrians were killed while crossing between intersections, followed closely by those coming from behind parked cars.

The report showed that in most cases the vehicle was going straight in clear weather while the person walking was inattentive.
